LARGE TURNOUT FOR RED CROSS RALLY MONDAY NITE

The present international organization known as the Red Cross, originally a Swiss organization and with its headquarters still located in Switzerland, this Red Cross has now spread to every land and with its splendid program by local artists, an informative and inspiring address by Capt. K. C. McLeod, and a very enjoyable dance, there were the features of the Red Cross rally held in the Separate School auditorium on Monday night last. A good turnout of residents of town and district was also present. The interest in this splendid organization, a branch of which has been recently formed in Wainwright.

Announced by the chairman, Rev. T. E. Armstrong, the enjoyable program consisted of selections by the String Ensemble (Miss M. Oddy, piano; Mrs. B. Ganderton, Messrs. C. Sorgen, R. Madder, violin; J. Egri, cello; and A. Adams, viola and conductor); vocal solos by Miss Audrey Greer; a dance by Misses Joyce Lally, Margaret Coleman, Shirley McKenna and Laura Lyle; a violin solo by Mr. Adams; dances by Mr. J. Giffart; recitations by Miss M. Darrach; and a violin duet by Mr. Adams and Mrs. Madder. Accompanists for the various numbers were Mrs. M. Oddy, Mrs. B. Greer and Mrs. E. Greer. The whole program was of very high calibre and was presented effectively and with a minimum of delay between numbers. Heartily applause by the audience testified to their appreciation of the efforts of the artists.

Introduced by the chairman as a man who knew something of the Red Cross work from actual experience in the last war, Captain K. C. McLeod, the special speaker for the evening opened his remarks with a brief survey of the history of the organization since its inception in 1863. Prior to that date it had been a matter of governmental and military policy to neglect the wounded, the object being to inspire them to struggle more desperately to avoid wounds. In 1863, however, an organization was founded which aimed at caring for wounded soldiers, and from that group sprang

Presbytery Visitation At United Church

A very happy and profitable time was spent at the United Church on Friday evening, when about 40 of the officers of the church and its organizations joined in a banquet in connection with the Presbytery Visitation Project carried out by Rev. H. W. Griffith, of Jarvis, and Rev. E. Longmire, of Irma, as visiting speakers.

At the banquet table Sunday school work was discussed and emphasis put upon the part that Christian personality plays in effective teaching. At the evening meeting, Rev. Griffith spoke on "Young People's Work, Its Functions" while Rev. Longmire presented the work of the various boards of the church—Missions and Maintenance, Home and Foreign Missions, Evangelism and Social Service. The addresses brought a challenge to the whole church to move forward to greater achievement at this opportune time.

This was the fourth visit carried out by this group of ministers in the eastern section of Wainwright Presbytery.

Basketball Teams Visit Vermilion

On Saturday last three cars took the Wainwright Girls' Basketball Team and the Men's Team over to the Vermilion College. The teams played two interesting games, scores being: Men: Wainwright 40, Vermilion 31; Girls: Wainwright 35, Vermilion 25. The girls were entertained at the college and members of the entire party were guests at the evening dance. The teams returned safely late that evening with but one regret—they had to leave behind that gymnasium!

Garage Business Changes Hands

We take great pleasure in welcoming to our town Messrs. Clifford Reynolds and Arthur Goodall, who, as new owners among our business men, come highly recommended from their former home in Chaurin. Following a deal which has been pending for some time, these gentlemen on Wednesday last took over management of the Brunker Service Station and from now on, this business will bear the title of the Goodall and Reynolds Garage. We understand that Mr. Harold Brunker, though undecided as to his next move, will remain in Wainwright for the present.

Hitler's 'Gangster Tactics' Arouse Much Indignation

Sporadic raids by German planes, attacks by warships on merchant vessels and, chiefly, huge losses to neutral and British shipping by mines down in the established shipping lanes marked this week's activity in the war zone.

Both in Britain and in neutral countries, indignation over Hitler's "gangster tactics" mounted as 10 ships, mostly of neutral countries, struck mines and went to the bottom with a loss of life running over 150.

Activities of Local Youth Train Group

"Health is the vital principle of bliss, and exercise of health,"

Those words were written some time in the seventeen hundreds, but are as true today as then. Certainly the activities of some 75 young people on Tuesday last would tend to bear out our poet in his belief, as they frolicked through the gymnasium, singing, games and lunch.

The occasion was the welcoming of the Vermilion group to our home stamping grounds, with their two leaders, Miss Eleanor Dunsmore and Mr. Art McEburner.

The Bridge Tournament sponsored by the group has been brought to a successful conclusion, with the winners as follows: Primary event, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Keenan; secondary event, Miss Helen Tolmie and Mr. Ted Carter. Prizes awarded were $3.00 and $4.00 respectively.

Work at the centre is progressing nicely and we urge all those who are not already members to visit one of these gatherings and join in the fun. Classes are as follows: Ladies, I.O.O.F. Hall on Tuesdays, Town Hall on Thursdays; Men, Mondays and Wednesdays, Town Hall. All classes begin at 8 p.m.

Some enquiries have been made with respect to the fee. The only fee required is your interest and attendance.

Old Timer Dies in Edmonton Hospital

An old timer in the person of Peter David Laird passed away in an Edmonton hospital on Friday last at the age of 76 years.

The late Mr. Laird was well known throughout all this district, having resided here for many years, where he carried on his trade as builder. Falling in health, he has lived with his son in Edmonton for the past four years.

Left to mourn are two daughters, Mrs. C. H. Keifer, of Edmonton, and Mrs. Fred Moffat, of Prince George, B.C., and four sons, Bert of Wainwright, Frank of Innisfree, Harry of Quebec, and Jack of Edmonton; and one daughter, Miss Edna Laird, of Vancouver.

The funeral service was held on Monday afternoon and interment was made in Edmonton. Several old friends motored up from town to pay their last respects to the deceased.

Pretty Wedding at Presbyterian Church

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday evening, when Rev. E. Stevens, D.D., pastor of the church, united in wedlock Agnes L. McKillop, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carsell, of Wainwright, and Joseph Donaldson, also of Wainwright.

At 8:30 p.m., to the strains of the wedding march played by Mr. Stevens, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was charmingly gowned in a frock of blue net over crown sapphire tulle, with which she wore a blue velvet hat and blue shoes. For her flowers, the bride chose pink roses.

Miss Margaret Carsell, sister of the bride, in her role as bridesmaid, wore a roman pink tulle dress, blue hat and silver slippers and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was supported by Mr. Hector Lawrence. During the signing of the register Misses Annabelle and Beale Carsell, twin sisters of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly".

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the I.O.O.F. hall, when about 60 well-wishers sat down to a dainty lunch. The bride's table was laid in lace and centred by a lovely three-tiered wedding cake.

Rev. Mr. Stevens, as toastmaster, proposed the health of the bride, which was responded to by the groom. The toast to the bridesmaid was given by Mr. Lawrence and responded to by Mr. Perry. Mr. Goehard proposed a toast to the ladies, to which Mrs. A. Hutchison replied. Messrs. McLean and F. Dixon offered the toast to the King and Queen.

Duets, solos, community singing and dancing kept the guests entertained until the wee sma' hours of the morn, when the happy couple entered for Edmonton, where they will spend their honeymoon. They were showered with confetti and good wishes for a happy journey through life together.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. Casey, of Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. L. Goehard, of Wetsakwin, Miss May Goehard, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Smith of Edmonton, Mrs. A. E. and Mrs. A. D'Albertain, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Perry of Chaurin, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McLean and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stead of Irma.

WEDDING BELLS

At St. Andrew's, Presbyterian church manse, a quiet wedding was celebrated when Freda Viola Parish, of Unity, became the bride of Elmer Russell Kelly, also of Unity. Misses Roberts and Vera Snyder were the witnesses and Rev. E. Stevens, D.D., performed the ceremony.

Buffalo Kill to Commence Today

Hunter Sam Puchell's mighty "buffalo" gun will begin to roar today (Wednesday) for the west's last great buffalo hunt, when the slaughter of 2,800 of the animals, whose hoofbeats once echoed over the western prairies, will be commenced at Wainwright national park. The animals, one of Canada's greatest tourist attractions, and the largest herd in the world, are being killed off on orders of the Dominion government. Given fine weather and favorable hunting conditions for rounding up the animals, the kill will go forward at the rate of between 80 and 100 a day until the entire herd has been disposed of.

Some 800-odd elk have already been slaughtered and the meat has been shipped to Indian reserves in Saskatchewan and Alberta. Moose, deer and yak have also to be disposed of, as well as the remainder of the elk, in accordance with the government's plan to utilize the park property for military purposes. No definite date has, as yet, been fixed for completion of the work of slaughtering the animals.

Among the animals to be disposed of in the near future are 10 head of cattalo, of various crosses, including "King", the huge 2,800-lb. cross between a buffalo and an Aberdeen Angus, and the 16-year-old buffalo-cross. Each one of the 10 animals of the cattalo herd to be slaughtered, while of little or no practical value to the effort to increase hardness of the domestic cattle, is absolutely unique and during past years have attracted many curious tourists to Wainwright and the park.

Large Crowd at C.L.A. Card Party

Replacing their usual fall supper, the Ladies' Aid of Blessed Sacrament Church held a very successful card party and dance in the Separate School auditorium on Thursday evening of last week.

Mrs. B. Beaulieu capably filled the role of M.C., guiding the moves of 32 tables of players.

A delightful lunch was served by the committee in charge following the cards, after which prizes were presented to the lucky winners, namely: Mrs. W. T. Brunker, 1st; Mrs. J. Stup, 2nd; Mr. Paul Beaupre, 1st; Mr. W. Jackson, 2nd.

The lovely table lamp, given as a door prize, was drawn for and won by Mr. Earl Lashmore.

The local orchestra supplied music for a couple of hours of dancing which brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Remember the Red Cross MUST have your support—Give generously!

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Balmer, of Gilt Edge, left on Monday to spend the winter in Edmonton.

EVERYONE CAN DO THEIR BIT! All Women Can Volunteer Their Services In Town This Week

One of the finest ways in which the women of Wainwright and district can lend assistance—if and when it is needed—in the present terrible struggle for democracy and democratic principles, is the movement for the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

This movement is now country-wide and the dates arranged by the local committee have been set for the last three days of this week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 23-24-25. On each of these days from 2 to 5:30 p.m. at the S.S.B. office on the ground floor of the post office building, ladies of the committee will be in attendance for the purpose of outlining the project and assisting in the filling in of the forms which are supplied for the registration.

The project is designed to provide an accurate survey of Canada's woman-power, and thus compile a list of all women willing to undertake work for which they may be already trained and qualified—or to undertake training for acceptable tasks. It will also ascertain the number of homes in Canada in which suitable refugees from Britain (under 16 years and over 60) can be safeguarded and cared for.

In advocating that EVERY woman register, we would point out that in doing so this will not interfere with your life, your work, or with any other activity or organization whatever (Red Cross, and so on), to which one may be pledged. Indeed this registration will co-ordinate the efforts and act as a clearing house for all such organizations. Also the registration does not commit any woman to do work for which she may have at first found herself capable when later circumstances may make this impossible.

Although the V.R.C.W. is purely voluntary in every sense it should be considered the patriotic duty of every woman in Wainwright and district to REGISTER WITHOUT FAIL this week as noted above, and thus by offering to "do their bit" answer for themselves the question which is on the lips of so very many—"What can I do to help?"

The post office building from 2 to 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Hope to see YOU there!

Only on rare occasions is the opportunity ever presented of securing a picture of major league hockey stars lined up on the same side, as are the players here, even before the start of the Siebert memorial game played in Montreal in honor of the former N.H.L. star, who was to have climaxed a great career as a player by managing Canadiens this season, only to meet death by drowning during the summer. Proceeds of the memorial game went to Siebert's family, and shown here are the members of the all-star team that played Canadiens in the Forum, defeating the erstwhile Flying Frenchmen 5-2. Reading in the

Million Dollars to Seek Expanded Wheat Uses

WOOL AND MOTOR FUEL IS PRODUCT OF WHEAT KERNEL

More than a million dollars will be spent in 1940 for research into finding new industrial uses for wheat, according to a report made recently to the North-West Grain Dealers' Association, said G. W. P. Heffelfinger, president of the Association.

Acting on behalf of the Line County Elevator Companies, Cecil Lamont has just returned from visiting the Research Division of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D.C., and the Ford Research Laboratories at Detroit, Mich. The purpose of the visit was to observe the progress achieved and the plans being made for research into finding new uses for wheat and other farm products following a preliminary survey which he made a year ago.

In reporting to the Association Mr. Lamont said that experiments are now proceeding the Ford Laboratories for the manufacture of synthetic wool from proteins derived from the wheat kernel. A synthetic wool which is more resilient than wool itself has been produced in the Ford laboratories from soy bean proteins. If the plans are successful wheat will be the base used in making velour seats for cars, and its use will be extended generally into the making of various velours and cloths. A new pre-forming process is being used for making plastic tractor seats from wheat straw. Initial experiments of the chemists give promise of success.

Officials of the United States Department of Agriculture furnished the Line Elevator Companies' representative with their plans for research into finding industrial uses for wheat. Research projects include doubling the present extraction of power alcohol from wheat and development of new types of motors to be operated by either liquid or powdered fuel derived from wheat, corn and agricultural wastes. These experiments will be carried out in the Research Laboratories now being built at Peoria, Ill., at a cost of $1,800,000.00. The Peoria Laboratory, which will be in operation in July, 1950, is one of four similar research divisions under erection by the United States Government. Each laboratory has been appropriated $1,000,000 annually for research into finding industrial uses for surplus agricultural products. 800 scientists will be engaged in the laboratories.

The Ford laboratories are also conducting research into development of new types of motors which can be operated economically with motor fuels derived from cereal crops.

The report submitted by Mr. Lamont shows that motor fuel derived from farm crops is now in use in 50 countries. In many of them it is compulsory as a means of utilizing surplus agricultural crops. Comparatively cheap gasoline supplies of Canada and the United States have prevented extensive use of this form of fuel on this continent. Authorities, however, look to the time when the major portion of motor fuel supplies will be derived from farm products. This, they point out, will be brought about by the present tremendous scale of withdrawal of irreplaceable supplies of oil from the earth. As oil reservoirs diminish on this continent prices will tend to increase and come into line with price of agricultural fuels, just as they have in many other countries where oil is not a natural resource of the country.

The report to the Grain Dealers' Association deals exhaustively with the various technical plans of the United States Government for seeking new industrial uses for wheat, oats, barley, rye, wheat straw and other agricultural wastes. It will be submitted to the Government of Canada in support of the request of the North-West Grain Dealers' Association to the government for establishment of a western division of the National Research Council.

The report states: "Canada, for the second time in the present century, is engaged in war on a tremendous and growing scale. Plentiful supplies of wheat with which to feed the Allied armies will be essential to the successful outcome of the war. The Allies have entered the war with large world supplies of wheat available. It may be that the countries most distant from the war-centre will not be able to move their wheat forward due to lack of ocean tonnage and inability of the Allies to furnish convoys for other than the shortest hauls. In such event large surplus stocks of wheat will pile up in wheat producing countries farthest from Europe. Wheat can be stored for many years. This wheat which is unable to find a market during the war may create even greater surplus problems following the war.

"We are all familiar with the farm re-adjustment problem brought about by disastrously low prices which occurred periodically following the last war. If the war lasts over a period of years wheat lands in the war area will be temporarily forced out of production and replaced with new areas in non-combat areas in countries within shipping range of Europe. The day will inevitably come, whether the war be of long or short duration, when agricultural re-adjustment will again become a Canadian and a world problem.

"To meet the problem of finding wider markets for wheat Canada should do all within her power to seek new industrial uses for this cereal. These new uses cannot be found overnight. To even complete the initial stages of setting forth on a program of research and establishing properly equipped laboratories requires considerable time. Actual research work might extend over a decade or longer. Present day possibilities for a successful program of research into wheat may appear obscure, but in scientific research and development it is unwise to be cynical. The synthetic production of nitrates and camphor is an outstanding example of the accomplishments of science. Changing economic factors, and extensive use of non-replaceable oil resources may, within the next decade or two, entirely change the present economic picture. Only properly applied research can give an answer to the possibilities of new and extended uses for wheat and by-products of wheat. This is Western Canada's major crop and the only cereal which can be grown and readily converted into cash in many areas of Western Canada. Wheat produced in Western Canada has superior qualities not possessed by wheat grown in other parts of the world. In setting forth on a program of research aimed to expand markets for wheat the Government of Canada would be acting in the best interests of the future of all Canada."

► Nearly always it is the forces behind the scenes that exert the greatest influence in momentous issues.

The more gigantic and protracted the ordeal, the greater determining factor these deeper sources of vital supply become.

In the present titanic struggle to assure a continuance of the freedom of Democracy, the vital sources of the Empire will be tested. The fine fighting forces of the British and the French will undoubtedly again display the courage and skill which have in times past brought them high honor and victories.

On them we can depend, but just so long as the base continues to furnish food and munitions. "An army marches on its stomach" was Napoleon's way of expressing it, and just as surely is the morale of the civilian population maintained at the dining table.

On Canada—the greatest agricultural country in the Empire—does Britain place her dependence for foodstuffs. Our wheat and other grains, our livestock and dairy products, our fruits and vegetables, take on a new and very vital significance and the highest efficiency in their production is essential for the national welfare.

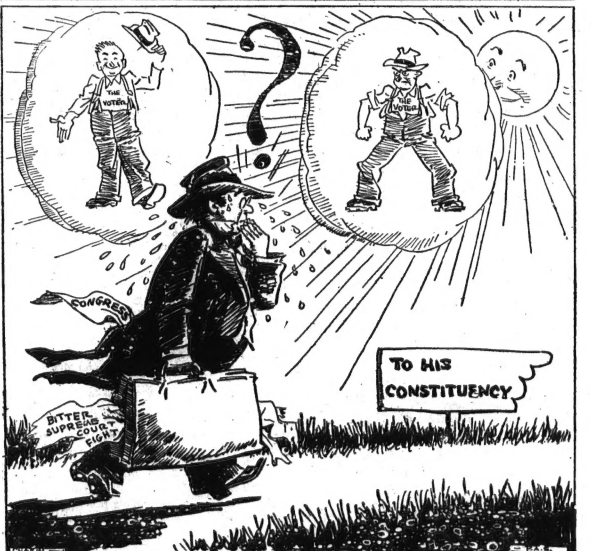

It is fortunate that, today, back of a mechanized army is a mechanized agriculture—Canada has the most highly mechanized farming in all the Empire, with power machinery for almost every farm operation, giving greater efficiency and saving time and labor, producing greater crops with fewer men.

The leadership shown by Canadian implement makers in the developing and making available of power-farming equipment of exceedingly high efficiency, so that Canadian farming might be made more profitable, now equips it to render the utmost in the specific contribution that Canada is called on to make, and can make, to the success of the Empire's cause.

Massey-Harris takes pride in the part it has played in the mechanization of Canada's farming and is eager to serve unselfishly and unstintingly in the field of its specialized knowledge and experience to aid agriculture meet the needs of the Empire.

Our Farm News Letter

B. Leslie Ennis, C.D.A. (Glas.), F.C.S.

BREEDING SOWS FOR WINTER FALLOWING

In North Eastern Saskatchewan an abundant crop has just been harvested. In view of this situation farmers should consider the advisability of breeding more sows than usual, advises M. J. McPhail, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Melfort, Sask. Furthermore, conditions arising out of the war indicate that Great Britain is likely to require large quantities of bacon from Canada.

Hogs farrowed during the winter months and properly raised will generally reach the proper weight when marketings are light. This in turn increases the likelihood of a fair price. Proper winter quarters, of course, are essential if winter pigs are to be raised. Extra stalls in a warm barn can easily be prepared as farrowing pens, but if comfortable quarters cannot be made available, sows should not be bred to farrow during cold weather.

In deciding on a hog program, a man should have a basis on which to estimate the value of grain marketed through hogs as compared with selling direct as grain. At the Melfort Experimental Station 121 pigs used an average of 337 pounds of grain to eat each 100 pounds of gain. Thereby by figuring on four hundred pounds of grain as the requirement for each 100 pounds of gain, it is possible to make a fair estimate of the grain value marketed through hogs. By the same method it is possible to estimate the number of pigs that can be carried on the amount of grain available.

Sows farrow about 114 days after service, so in order to avoid neglect it is a good plan to mark the breeding date on a calendar immediately, if a regular record book is not used. At the Experimental Station, Melfort, brood sows are wintered in colony houses placed in a sheltered spot and banked with straw. They should have to walk a hundred yards or so to feed in order that a reasonable amount of exercise is assured. Warm water is essential and should be provided daily, as pigs will not thrive on snow as their only source of water. Potassium iodide should also be provided in order to prevent hair loss, weak pigs. A satisfactory method is to dissolve one ounce of potassium iodide in a gallon of water and allow four tablespoonfuls of this to each sow once a week in their drinking water.

Pigs will consume surprising amounts of leafy alfalfa hay or clover and this has a particularly beneficial effect on the systems of pregnant sows. Out sheaves harvested somewhat green are also relieved. A supply of sod should be put up so that the sows can be given fresh dirt to nest on, as this is nature's method of supplying hogs with essential minerals.

The brood sow should be brought into the farrowing pen a week before due, in order that she may become accustomed to the new surroundings before the little ones arrive. The sow may become nervous and irritable if moved just prior to farrowing. A bath in used crank case oil will cleanse the skin and eliminate itches.

Careful attention at this period will generally give the owner several hundred pounds of extra pork to market.

WAR MEASURES ACT AND FARM PRODUCE

In Canada the War Measures Act is in force again, and under its authority there has been created in Ottawa an agriculture supplies committee the purpose whereof is "to keep agriculture functioning in a manner which will supply the food and fibre needs of the people of Canada and their Allies in the war during the period of the war and to leave the farmer, as far as possible, in a position to follow his natural peace-time pursuits at the end of the war."

Special sub-committees, aided by advisory boards, have been appointed to deal with farm products, the purchase and distribution of feeds, seeds, fertilizers, insecticides, etc. The chief aim on the part of the government, says B. Leslie Ennis, is the promotion of higher quality in farm produce, be it grain, canned crops, meat or milk, and advice will be disseminated freely on fertilizers, insecticides, seed fungicides, feeds and mineral supplements for livestock, etc. Prof. farmers' interests protected.

THE CURED CANCER CLUB

A unique organization in the United States is the Cured Cancer Club, founded in 1938. To be eligible for membership, one has to be vouched for by a physician as having been cured of cancer at least five years before the application for membership. The only other requirement is that the applicant be willing to be publicly known as a cured cancer patient and in this way help in the campaign for a frank, fearless attitude toward this great killer.

If you are one of the millions who fear cancer more than any other disease—the American Institute of Public Opinion's poll showed that 76 per cent of the people do fear cancer more than any other disease—you might find some comfort in the membership figures of the Cured Cancer Club. Jane Stafford writes in Science Service.

According to figures compiled by the American College of Surgeons there were at the end of last year (1938) 29,195 people eligible for membership in this unique club. The Cured Cancer Club was founded through the efforts of Dr. Anna C. Palmer, of Milton, Mass., who is now president of the Club. Like all the other members, Dr. Palmer has had cancer and has been cured. It was in 1920, when she was a practicing physician, that she was operated on for cancer of the breast. Today, she is 83 years old, and an animate document in evidence that the most dreaded of all living diseases is conquerable with early diagnosis and prompt treatment.

As soon as Dr. Palmer was sure she was cured, she began her campaign to create a frank attitude toward cancer and to dispel the fear and horror that kept people from going to a doctor as soon as they suspected they might have cancer, while their chances for a cure were still good.

MAKE-UP SECRETS

Because many of us are a little uncertain about make-up, I am going to reveal some of its secrets.

All make-up must tone with skin, hair and eyes. Study the cosmetic make-up charts and experiment with different color schemes to find the best effect.

The basis of a good make-up is a perfectly clean face, then use a powder base. Start powdering at the base of the throat and apply in a succession of firm-pressure movements upwards. Don't flap the powder puff.

Apply lipstick with open mouth, carrying the color well inside. Start with the upper lip, working out from centre to corners. Then transfer the color to lower lip by pressing lips together.

In rouging, start at the high points of the cheeksbones and shade the rouges. Common errors are: Too much rouge; sharp edges; rouge too low on cheeks and rouge too high on the temples.

A young girl's make-up should be natural, unaffected. In the twenties and thirties it may be smartly sophisticated. As one grows older, be subtle rather than obvious.

A word about eye make-up. Mascara on the upper lashes darkens and lengthens them. Eyeshadow on the

EPIDEMIC BLEEDING

From the surgeon's point of view war is an epidemic of blood letting and infected injuries. Immediate danger of death to the victims of this epidemic results from loss of blood. Those who survive this risk must face other risks of mutilation or death from infection.

The Spanish war has shown us the first organized attempt to combat blood loss on an epidemic scale. As much as ten gallons of blood have been sent daily from Barcelona to the Spanish government front. Young women are glad to answer radio appeals to act as donors and literally to "shed their blood" for their country. The blood is "typed" and collected into sealed glass ampoules under pressure. It is then cooled to freezing point and sent up to the front, being kept in refrigerators until needed. Before use the ampoules are slowly heated to body temperature.

During the Spanish-American war 3,000 of our soldiers died of typhoid fever, 345 were killed in battle. During the World War, our soldiers having been inoculated against typhoid fever, only 227 died from this disease. But 36,694 were killed in action and 13,765 died of wounds. The war has shown us that medical science may triumph over death from wounds as it has already triumphed over typhoid fever. Of course man should use some of his ingenuity in inventing an alternative to war. The very best way to fight an epidemic is to prevent it.

Smart shops are now showing all-right metal canisters which keep crackers, coffee and the like crisp and fresh indefinitely. They filled one with crackers, immersed it in a pan of water for two weeks, and the crackers came out crisp as ever. The canisters come in two and three pound sizes.

We couldn't possibly think of a neater gift for the bride of modest income than one of the new racks which fasten against the wall and have two rows of five sliding books for pots and pans. Everything right where you want it. The upper part may be used to hold canisters, and there are brass roosters, foxes and fish for added color.

Upper lids gives brilliance to eyes. Apply sparingly to lower edges of eyes. perils and shade out and up. If you don't like eyeshadow, a little olive oil on the upper lid is becoming.

WILL KEEP ROADS CLEAR OF SNOW

Need of keeping Alberta highways clear of snow this winter has been emphasized by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Official word from provincial government sources is that it is the intention to use snow clearing equipment to keep the roads clear. At points where such are necessary snow fences or other protective constructions will be provided.

Purchase of more snow-clearing equipment has been completed by the provincial authorities. The latest additions are two heavy trucks with plows, estimated to cost $12,000.

The new equipment will be used to augment two rotary plows which were purchased in 1935, one of which is located at a Calgary base and the other at Edmonton.

During this season snow plow equipment has already been in action. With an increased number of cars in operation, due to the license year ending on March 31 next, instead of December 31, there is a greater demand on the provincial authorities to keep the roads clear.

Municipal authorities also are reported to be giving their attention to snow clearing problems, as they are anxious to see that normal traffic conditions will be maintained throughout the winter, as far as is reasonably possible.

AIRCRAFT AT WAR AGAINST INSECTS

The airplane has been pressed into other kinds of warfare than that between nations. One form of aerial warfare is directed against destructive insects. In Canada the air express services of the Trans-Canada Air Lines have been carrying shipments of insect parasites which have been released in British Columbia to fight the pea moth that has destroyed the dry pea industry. In the Okanagan, the codling moth has also come in for a counter-attack from parasites the codling moth being destructive in the apple and pear orchards. These insect parasites are gathered from all over the world and the fast delivery which the airplane affords is a major factor in enabling these parasites to reach infected areas while still virulent. The parasites live only a few days after reaching maturity.

WHO WOULDN'T?

The editor of the Canadian wants to know why people swear. We are surprised that a newspaper editor should ask such a question.

Anyone that has to do business with such crummy stuff as printing machinery, ink and paper, just can't keep from swearing.

The big newspaper press will run as smooth as silk for weeks. Then comes a time when the paper is late and everything is in an uproar. And that crummy blanky blank press will develop a streak of cussedness that would try the temper of the very archangel.

The weather likes to change but a trifle, and printing ink will display a hellishness of disposition one would never suspect in such seemingly innocuous material.

And what, a typewriter wouldn't cause in the way of trouble when it gets into a recalcitrant frame of mind! Not worth while bothering about. Just troubles were aisy, bubbles compared to the of an operator whose typewriter machine is on the rampage.

Then it usually happens that when one is in the throes of an epidemic of mechanical trouble, along comes an irate subscriber to hawl you out because you have mis-spelled his name. Holy Motherhood! Who wouldn't swear?—Brooks Bulletin.

War Story

On the western front, little activity was in evidence during the week. In Germany troops were held up by the French forces which occupy that territory but otherwise the entire front was quiet. Indications that a major offensive is still a possibility for the year, however, were seen in the immense concentration of German troops all the way from Holland to the Swiss border. A large force of men has, as yet, not been set up into any groups other than regiments. The German high command is reported to be short of officers for the complete organization of this large body of troops and evidence of this is seen in reports that rules governing candidates for officers rank have been relaxed to permit any soldier in the army to work for a commission.

Diplomatic circles saw possibilities of increased tension between Russia and Finland as the Soviet navy, maneuvering from their recently-occupied bases in Latvia and Estonia, took up dominating positions in the Baltic. The commander of the Russian fleet issued a statement accusing Finland of warlike activities aimed against the Soviet.

General naval surface craft are reported to be active off the Portuguese coast and have intercepted several British merchant vessels in those waters.

Red Cross Rally

visited by representatives of the organization and their complaints investigated. When prisoners in Germany and other countries had complained about the quality of the food issued to them, the Red Cross had applied for and received permission to supplement rations, and this was done to the extent of 60 lb. of food per prisoner per month. Over 2,000,000 letters were handled by the organization, which also maintained a service for locating "missing" soldiers and putting them in communication with friends and relatives.

The refugee problem had, of recent years, become one of the greatest cares of the organization, and Capt. McLeod referred to the 12,000,000 Chinese being forced from their homes, without adequate food, clothing or shelter, by Japanese invasion of their country; to the several hundreds of thousands of Poles who were now refugees; and to the work being done in France, which had opened its frontiers to refugees from practically every part of the world.

In the years 1914 to 1918, Canada had raised $9,000,000 in cash, in addition to $2,250,000 donated to the British Red Cross and supplies and materials to a further value of $20,000,000.

After pointing out that such voluntary efforts and subscriptions were of a value, nearly as great to the giver as to those who profited by the gift, the speaker then dealt with some of the criticisms heard regarding the Red Cross. He had heard complaints that Red Cross supplies had been charged to recipients in various hospitals during the Great War, but he pointed out that these goods were supplied to the hospitals as they required them, without charge, and that their ultimate distribution to the patients was then in the hands of the hospital authorities who, in some instances, saw fit to charge for these goods. It was a matter which was beyond the jurisdiction of the Red Cross.

To the criticism that administration work took too much of the subscription funds, the speaker replied by stating that administration costs amounted to a small fraction of 1 per cent.

Some confusion had arisen due to the form of organization in Alberta. Capt. McLeod pointed out that two committees had been set up, one in charge of the drive for funds and the other to handle the voluntary work being done by local organizations. Of the total of $9,000,000, which is the aim of the present drive, Alberta's quota had been set at $150,000. The

Cabinet Minister Outlines Progress

Alberta is the greatest agricultural province in Canada, Hon. D. B. Mullen provincial minister of agriculture, told a Social Credit constituency convention in the Elite theatre here on Wednesday.

The cabinet minister outlined progress which he said had been made in agriculture since he took office. Official speakers were Chairman Frank Dixon and W. Masson, M.L.A. for Battle River constituency.

Relating increase of families placed on the land, Hon. Mr. Mullen said in 1937 a total of 97 families were started on farms in the province, and last year 148 families were placed. This year the total is even larger.

To improve livestock, a purebred bull exchange is being operated and last year 416 purebred sires were placed in various districts. Twelve feeder associations now are operating, the speaker continued.

The Vermilion School of Agriculture has the best Aberdeen Angus herd in Alberta, while at Oids a fine Ayrshire herd is kept, said the cabinet minister. In the youth training movement, 300 boys were placed on producing farms and it is intended to increase this number. The government has increased fur farming and the amount of relief aid, he said.

Mr. Masson commented on the increase in the use of the treasury branch in Wainwright and dealt with the war situation.

EDGERTON

The weather has been most agreeable for yet another week, but there is a rumor afloat that pleasant as it is, in many respects it is the cause of all these blankly blank colds which many of our citizens are enduring with what patience they can muster.

Practically everyone is "coughing," "coughing" or "blowing their noses" these days; all of which proves that we can't have everything, and must accept the bitter with the sweet.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Nichols held their wedding dance on the night of November 19th in the Pavey Hall, and as is customary at such affairs, the Hall was packed to capacity with a merry throng which did its level best to dance until 4 a.m.

The Jitter-Bug Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. F. W. Davis last week; incidentally, a little bird tells us that these serious bridge fans are foregoing the thrill of accepting a prize and instead are contributing to the purchase of extra dainties for the weekly Mrs. Andy Show, who is in an Edmonton hospital and may be for some considerable time.

Little short of miraculous was the escape from injury, or worse, of four of the five persons involved in a collision between a truck and a car about one mile north of town late Friday afternoon. The truck, driven by Wm. Russell, was proceeding north and in quite a deep rut, which prevented him pulling over to the right side of the road in time to avoid the oncoming car, which crashed into the truck with terrific impact. Wm. Russell was unhurt and A. Raymond, driver of the car, escaped injury, as did two of his sons, but a third was thrown violently against the windshield, sustaining facial cuts which, although painful, were not serious. The injured youth was brought into town, where Dr. Aylesworth soon attended the wounds and fixed the worst one with a couple of stitches. Raymond's car—fortunately not a new model—was almost a complete wreck, for which Mr. Russell made preparation.

"Bird" Miles suddenly felt the urge to be on the move, so he packed his belongings and started for the Pacific coast early Saturday.

Will Kelly was well enough to return home from the Wainwright hospital Saturday last. For slightly more than two weeks he has been a pneumonia patient in that institution, which undoubtedly proves the efficacy of the new treatment now in use for this particular disease.

The W.A. Bazaar last Saturday was very well attended and it is understood that the ladies are not disappointed with the net proceeds. Mrs. E. M. Hallett made the lucky guess on a jar of beans and won a handsome rug, while Mrs. W. C. Nelson held the winning ticket on a comforter. The home-cooking stall was very popular.

Herr Hitler appears to be putting on a spot of pressure on the high seas—at the moment—but we know it is only temporary, and have every confidence that before very long, right will conquer might. Killing innocent neutrals will not further his cause one iota, instead, surely it will have just the opposite effect.

Mr. Robert Armstrong has returned home from receiving treatment in hospital in Edmonton.

Mr. R. A. Held is employed by Mr. Bert Dalton during the latter's absence in Edmonton.

Let us hope our good weather will continue.

Popular Couple United in Marriage

Uniting a popular couple of Edgerton's younger set, was the wedding which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Reynolds on Saturday afternoon last, when their second daughter, Eileen, became the bride of Frank, second son of Mrs. A. Redmond and the late Mr. Redmond.

Rev. Mr. Morrison performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for this important occasion a gown of bluish pink sheer over heavy satin with which she wore the traditional orange blossoms and short veil.

Miss Joyce Reynolds attended her sister as bridesmaid and wore a floor-length gown of aqua blue sheer over satin.

Mr. James Redmond was best man. Miss Vera Bertram played the wedding march as the bride entered the room and took her place with the groom under an arch of pink and white streamers and wedding bells.

With the ending of the ceremony, the young couple very graciously received the best wishes of the guests, some forty of whom sat down at the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Redmond will take up residence north of Edgerton.—Con.

GREENSHIELDS

The young people of the district met at the hall last Monday evening and revived the Greenhields Go-Getters Club. Election of officers resulted in Rufus Carl being chosen as president, Marcella Plater, vice president, and Merv Hest, secretary-treasurer.

The club will meet every second Tuesday (with the exception of next week, November 27th) with a committee of four in charge of entertainments. It is hoped the Club will furnish a happy diversion from the regular routine of the winter months.

A lively crowd danced at the Greenhields hall on Friday evening and assured the Greenhields school children of a Christmas Tree fund. Mr. R. A. Snyder won the auto rug, on which the pupils have been selling tickets.

Congratulations to Mr. Jim Sutherland and his bride. Their wedding took place in Wainwright on Saturday evening.

1940 WILLYS FEATURES
BEAUTY, COMFORT, ECONOMY
AT LOW RETAIL PRICES

Delivery of new 1940 Willys cars reveals to motorists a diverse array of refinements and mechanical features usually found only in cars selling at much higher prices.

The Willys is the lowest priced full sized car in Canada, with the most economy of operation, yielding up to 40 miles per gallon of gasoline.

The 1940 Willys cars include a four-door Speedway sedan, a four-door De Luxe sedan, a Speedway and a De Luxe coupe, and a smart new station wagon.

A dash of appearance of youthfulness distinguishes all models. The lines of the new Willys are streamlined smoothly from deep-curved front fenders to the enlarged trunk at the rear.

The gleaming chromium radiator grille, and headlights moulded into the contour of the fenders, lend distinction to the new Willys. A bolt line chrome strip, the full length of the body, also enhances the beauty of the car.

seat has a frame of tubular construction with a new type of self-aligning springs. It is the most comfortable front seat ever installed in a Willys car, and the cushioning gives an added foot room for rear seat passengers and also for air circulation under the seat. Willys this year has also increased the head room in the rear seat.

All Willys models are offered with or without running boards, following the trend of the times. The purchaser also has the option of two types of luggage racks in the sedan, one mounted flush in the body and the other with a little back style preferred by many motorists.

One of the striking features of the new Willys is the upholstery and interior trim. For upholstery in De Luxe models a two-toned boucle material is being used, with an option of mohair or broadcloth. Wearing edges are piped in leather, and interior edges of the doors are trimmed with leather covered sponge rubber tufting.

Willys has installed no-draft ventilation in De Luxe models, this adding greatly to the comfort of passengers. Besides enhancing the appearance of the front windows. All windows are of safety glass.

A new two-spoke safety steering wheel attracts instant attention in the new Willys. A remote control gearshift is mounted on the steering post of all De Luxe models, as standard equipment.

The Willys steering-post gearshift on De Luxe models is the latest word in efficiency and smooth operation. It is a synchronized device which is easy to design and very easy to operate.

The Willys instrument panel achieves a stylish effect by conservative treatment, harmonizing with the upholstery color. Instruments are mounted so as to be easily visible and readily accessible. All models have one package compartment, with the option of an additional one.

The 1940 Willys offers a greatly improved ride, due in part to a new type of softer springs. Spring clips lined with rubber keep the leaves together evenly and eliminate squeaks and snapping of leaves.

In addition to safety glass in all windows, the new Willys has a protective body of all-steel unit weld construction. It is equipped with new disc hydraulic brakes of the newest improved type.

The high power of the Willys economy engine gives the new cars a top speed up to 75 miles an hour. An important change in the engine is counterweighted crankshaft which gives smooth performance and adds to the life of bearings.

The Willys engine this year has an improved chain in the front end for driving the camshaft and a new type of sealing for the water pump.

Willys this year has adopted a plain tube, automatic carburetor with fixed jets. Engineers say this carburetor is not subject to the vagaries of a carburetor with a variable air control and is more uniform in action.

All models are equipped with voltage control, high output generator which is big enough to take care of radio and other requirements.

Bumper to bumper the new Willys models are 15 feet and 1 inch in length, and their height is five feet and eight inches.

Wherever it appears, on the road or at motor shows, the 1940 Willys has received the admiration of motorists, not only for the beauty of its appearance but also for its durable safety construction and brilliant performance.

CHAPTER XI

Anthony and Cary drove home in a companionable silence. He drove as slowly as traffic would allow but all too soon, it seemed to Cary, he was stopping in front of the apartment. They got out and went up the steps and stood for a moment in the early evening shadows.

"Feel better now?" he asked.

"Much better," she said. "Thanks for everything. It gave me a tremendous lift."

"Would you like to do it again sometime?" The question in his dark eyes was deeper than the question in his voice.

"Oh, Tony, I'd love to!" she sighed.

A long, dark car eased to a stop before the apartment entrance. Cary scarcely saw it, for Anthony drew her to him.

"Cary, would you mind very much if I kissed you goodnight?"

"I want you to, Tony," she whispered.

She felt his arm about her waist but at that moment a familiar voice crashed in upon them.

"Cary!"

Cary broke from Anthony. Lucrétia stood on the lower step looking up at them, her lips set in a thin-lipped, non-committal smile. She ignored Tony completely, as she said to Cary, "Darling, Jim has been looking for you every place. You should call him immediately."

Cary glanced at Tony. His eyes were as cold as Lucrétia's and as uncompromising.

"Mother," Cary said. "This is Anthony Garth. You remember him at the ranch years ago?"

Lucrétia turned, as if seeing him for the first time. "Oh, of course. How do you do? I have a dreadful memory for faces."

"It's most convenient at times," he said coldly.

They regarded each other steadily. Then Cary said, "Goodbye, Tony. Thanks for everything."

She turned and followed Lucrétia into the building.

When the door of their apartment closed behind them, Lucrétia faced Cary with cold fury. "How could you be so crude?"

Cary looked at her mother clear-eyed. "If you mean being with Anthony Garth, you might as well know that I enjoyed it."

Lucrétia stared at Cary with hostile eyes. "If you had any thought for me—if you could realize all that I went through because of him—you wouldn't add insult to injury. You can't imagine what a shock it was to me to come upon you two—holding hands—my own daughter with that man's—"

"Please—Lou—"

"Please—Lou—"

"I like Anthony Garth a lot. I'm old enough to know now that he has done nothing to either of us. Anger flashed like needles in Lucrétia's eyes. "Everybody knows who he is—that David plucked him up out of a gutter somewhere—"

"Lou—please—"

Cary's eyes blazed a warning that stopped even Lucrétia. "What if Paul finds out you are running around with a man like Anthony Garth? What will he think?"

"If Paul thinks things that are not true—well, then, he can just think them," Cary said stubbornly unmoved. "I shall certainly not run away from Anthony. You'll have to make up your mind to that."

Lucrétia set her athen lips. Without another word she went to her room and closed the door, leaving Cary to her own unhappy thoughts.

When Jim telephoned an hour later Lucrétia hadn't come out of her room or made a sound. That closed door was beginning to worry Cary.

"You're a fine one to run off the way you did. Jim's voice came to her over the wire. "What got into you at a sudden? An owner usually sticks around."

"I was unhappy about Rex. I never would have entered him in the race if I'd thought—"

"Now, forget all that, girlie. That's just one of those things that you expect once in awhile. You won a fat purse didn't you, and besides you got $2,000 for him. I'll pick up something else to take his place. You and Lou get into your glad rags and we'll celebrate."

"I don't believe Lucrétia will go to dinner tonight, Jim," Cary said in a lowered tone.

"Then how about you and me? There was something too eager, puzzling in her voice."

"Thanks just the same, Jim, but I'm staying with Lou. She might need me."

Jim's laugh was loud in the telephone. "When did Lou ever need you, baby? Be ready in a half hour and we'll do the town."

A date with Jim? He must be joking, she thought. The idea some, how made her a little ashamed. She put the telephone back on the stand and sat staring at it. All the uneasiness she had ever felt over Jim Constance swept over her again.

The apartment buzzer put a double stop to her thoughts. When she spoke into the tube, Ivy Dana's voice answered her. "Move over, darling. I'm coming up."

A few moments later Ivy pushed her way into the apartment, looking more rambled and full of life than ever. Cary wondered if she had ever been so glad to see anyone as she was to see Ivy.

"Unload me," Ivy said, pointing with her chin to the travelling bag and hat box and a package under each arm.

"For heaven's sake, why didn't you get Harry to help you with all this?"

Cary laughed as she took the packages.

"Harry? Who's he? I don't trust him, anyway. Where's Lou?"

Cary indicated the closed door. "She and I had a tiff."

"I got out of sight and you two immediately go at each other's throats," Ivy groaned. "Was it bad this time?"

Cary nodded.

"Then I better go in to see her."

"I believe you'd stick your head in a lion's mouth," Cary said, but she was perfectly miserable over the whole affair. No matter how selfish and scheming her mother might be, Cary was wholeheartedly devoted to her.

"It's a good way to find out whether a lion is hungry or not," Ivy said, as she knocked at the door and went in without being asked.

Cary waited interminable minutes, it seemed, for Ivy to come out of Lucrétia's room. A magazine lay on her lap, its pages unturned. She could not read and she could not keep her mind from marching in a procession of disturbing thoughts.

Already she owed Jim Constance more than $4,000 and bills were coming in each day almost faster than she had time to write checks to cover them. She was drawing on her own slender allowance to pay many of them. Yet Jim insisted that everything was coming along as it should.

"It's always tough in the beginning," he assured her, "but as long as you've got me back of you, I have nothing at all to worry about. I'll see you through."

Strangely that was no assurance whatever.

When Ivy came out she was not looking particularly happy. "Bill down here," she motioned to Cary, handing a place beside her on the day. "Cary obeyed silently."

"Now what's all this I hear about Rex taking it pretty hard? It's not going to be fatal, is it?"

"No, especially when a woman like her is still beautiful and there are plenty of men adrift—rich men, I mean."

"I met him at the track today," Cary said unhappily, almost wishing she hadn't seen Anthony at all. "I was feeling pretty low at the time. One of my horses was claimed for a song."

"I don't know what that means," Ivy said.

"But go on."

"He must have seen how I felt, for he suggested that we get out of there where we could talk. We got in his car and landed on high stools with our elbows on the counter and some perfectly awful food in front of us. You know what that does to a person sometimes."

"Yeah, I know," Ivy said. "After that what happened?"

"Nothing really. We drove home. I was standing on the steps when Lou came up with some friends. I guess it was quite a shock to her."

"How did she take it?"

"Better than I expected, but rotten enough. She left no doubt in his mind how she felt toward him."

"I imagine," Ivy chuckled. "But the question is, Cary, how much do you like him? I mean is he likely to be coming around again soon?"

Cary flushed slightly, but she was frank.

"I like him a lot, though it's nothing serious. I may see him again, but not here."

Ivy grinned. "I'd say from the expression on your face that you liked him more than a lot and that you very definitely will be seeing him again."

"I still say I like him a lot, Ivy, but I'm not going to let myself get any other way about him. Lou thoroughly hates him because she knew David was paying out money to someone and she believed Anthony had some connection with that."

Cary got up abruptly and stood looking down at Ivy. "I can't say who David was paying out money to but I'm sure now that it wasn't a woman. He was kind and good and he loved my mother and he loved her child. Otherwise, why did he continue sending her fat checks each month after her marriage to George Tyle automatically stopped all money? But she took everything he gave her and gave him only bitter hate in return."

Ivy lighted a cigarette before she spoke. She looked at Cary through a thin haze of smoke and said, "You are a smart girl, Cary. You should have been a detective instead of a good-looking."

She drew deeply on the cigarette and her eyes narrowed. "Tell me this, though. How are you going to keep Anthony Garth from feeling some thing more than sisterly affection for you? It's sometimes difficult to keep a man like him from falling in love and when they do—well, I'm warning you, they work fast. You're married to them and settled down in a vine-covered cottage before you can bat an eye. And how do you think Lucrétia is going to take that?"

"You've forgotten about Paul," Cary said. "I'm going to give him the right of way the next time we meet and that should make everyone extremely happy."

Ivy stood up and bent to crush the fire from her cigarette. She did not look at Cary when she said, "Every one but Anthony and you."

Then she laid the weight of her unhurried glance fully upon Cary as she went on, "If I were you, darling, I wouldn't marry any man that I did not love. Your own mother did that three times and it brought her nothing but headaches and unhappiness."

"But I love Paul," Cary said, meeting Ivy's eyes levelly, believing her own words.

"I'm glad to hear that, my sweet," Ivy said drily. "I'm glad to hear that someone loves someone else. Where do I sleep? I'm going to bed at eight so I'll be beautiful tomorrow."

"There are two beds in my room," Cary said. "I'd love to have you use the other one. Mine's the one next to the double windows."

"So thoughtful of you to grab all the fresh air," Ivy said, but her voice was steeped with good humor.

The telephone rang sharply. "I'll take it," Cary said.

Ivy yawned. "If it's for me, I'm not in. If it's for Lou, she's all right. But if it's for you and it's a date take it. You need something to give you a boost. You look terrible."

Cary felt her heart hasten its beat. Jim wouldn't be calling again. She had rather definitely settled him for tonight. Anthony had said, "I'll call you—"

"Hello, Cary Morgan speaking."

"Hello, sweetheart," the voice at the other end of the wire said. "You're sounding rather formal tonight."

"Paul? When did you get into town?"

Ivy headed for the bedroom, muttering, "Speaking of the devil—" and closed the door before she finished the sentence.

"I'm not quite in town but I'll be there in about an hour. I thought I better warn you that we're going places and doing and seeing things tonight."

"Sounds about right to me, Paul. I'll be waiting—"

Sale Carnegie 5-Minute Biographies

Author of "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

He Got $49.49 A Word—For A Book He Was Sorry He Ever Wrote!

There has been only one author in the history of the world who ever wrote a book and made $49.49 profit on every single word in the book. That book was The Specialist, and its author was Chic Sale.

The Specialist was the first book Chic Sale ever wrote, and he had a little faith in it that he printed only two thousand copies at first; and took six weeks to sell them. Then suddenly the book caught on and swept over the country like flames racing and roaring through a pine forest. It sold more copies than The Good Earth!

You'd think wouldn't you that an author would be mighty proud of writing a book that outsold The Good Earth? But Chic Sale wasn't. He regretted that he ever wrote The Specialist—regretted it because his humor has been misunderstood by many people.

Chic Sale became an author more so by accident than by design. He was an actor and one of the finest character actors that ever put on stage points.

For that matter, he became an actor more or less by accident, too. Years ago he was a mechanic working in the railroad shops in Urbana, Illinois. His older sister had stage aspirations, so she went to Chicago and studied at a dramatic school. When she came home for Christmas vacation, she gave a program at one of the churches and mimicked country characters.

After her performance was over, Chic said, "Why, I can do that without effort!"

She dared him to, so he walked out in the middle of the floor and gave an imitation of the local telephone operator in Urbana. In a few minutes, he had the natives almost rolling off their chairs.

After next week a troupe of actors came to Urbana to put on a show. They had a comedy man who came out and sat on the sofa and entertained the audience, but he got sick. Chic Sale heard about it, and applied for the job.

The manager of the show was skeptical. But Chic gave him a sample of what he could do, and the manager took him on for the week, paid him ten dollars, and changed Chic's whole life.

Packing up his old telescope suitcase, he dashed off to Chicago, got a job on the stage and went to a cheap rooming house and began rehearsing his stunt. He decided that whippersnappers would make him look more like an old man; but he didn't know where he could buy them, so he took some hair styling out of his mattress, and made himself a set of whippersnappers on the stage for eight months before he bought a real set of whippersnappers from a dealer in theatrical make-up.

His pay was very small, and every penny was precious. In order to keep himself from eating too much, he would buy cheap candy and nibble on it while before dinner. That took the edge off his appetite.

He played in six musical comedies on Broadway; but he couldn't sing and he couldn't dance. He was the best known "horn player" in the United States; yet he couldn't play a horn. He made $50.00 playing in shows that were about Paris; yet he never saw Paris.

He wore the same pair of shoes on the stage for sixteen years. They were the shoes he used when he played the parts of old men. He believed they brought him good luck, so he kept on repairing them and refused to have any others.

After making so much money out of The Specialist, Chic Sale wrote another book. It was called: The Corn Husker Crashes the Movies and it didn't bring in enough cash to pay the printing bills!

and of women and children, refugees from or living in enemy occupied areas, found a few "necessities" given them the only bright spot in their and dreary lives.

These prisoners' parcels, these comforts and necessities, were provided by the Red Cross; and large supplies of all things which will be needed during the present war.

The World of Wheat

H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,

An appeal for funds for the Canadian Red Cross is now being made throughout Canada.

During the last war numbers of Canadian and Allied soldiers were taken prisoner, and many of them are alive today only because of "prisoners' parcels" supplemented the meagre rations of the prison camp. Hundreds of thousands of our soldiers, war-weary, shell-shocked, gassed, wounded and shattered in battle, were better able to endure their sufferings because of the extra "comforts" they received. Untold numbers of old men

Following factors have tended to raise price: Estimates of coming Argentine crop sharply reduced—Winter wheat situation in the U.S. winter wheat belt in worst ever experienced—Cereal and foodstuff crops in Manchuria are below last year's harvest—Winter seedling in Hungary delayed by wet weather—4,000 tons of Canadian rye sold to Scandinavia.

Following factors have tended to lower price: U.S. reports indicate a corn crop of 2,550 million bushels—Australia 1939-40 wheat crop is generally favorable—Winter grain conditions in Roumania and Bulgaria are excellent—Preliminary estimates indicate a near-record grain harvest in Russia—Visible stocks of Canadian wheat reached an all-time record of 351,565,401 bushels.

WAR RELIEF

National Red Cross War Drive
$3,000,000

How is this money to be spent? The charter of the Canadian Red Cross Society sets out the objects of this great cause as follows:

"In times of peace or war to carry on and assist in work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world."

Last year the sum of $1,000,000.00 was collected to finance the peace-time work of the Society. Today, because of the greater needs of war, three times that amount must be raised. Peacetime activities cannot be neglected and the programme of war relief must be initiated at once.

Consideration of the many aspects of Red Cross work in 1914-1918 gives some indication of the programme that will have to be undertaken in the present war.

Hospitals and Nurses

Hospitals must be built and equipped in England and France to care for the Canadian sick and wounded. During the last war the Canadian Red Cross built and equipped (wholly or in part) hospitals at Taplow, Bushey Park, Ramsgate, Bexhill and Buxton in England, built and equipped one of the largest military hospitals in France; and established a depot in Boulogne for Canadian hospitals.

Ambulances

From 1914 to 1918 the Canadian Red Cross provided scores of ambulances to convey the sick and wounded in France and England.

Motor Lorries

The Canadian Red Cross in France maintained a service of motor lorries to ensure the conveyance of Red Cross supplies with the greatest possible dispatch wherever needed.

Surgical Supplies and Medicines

X-Ray equipment, surgical apparatus, supplies and dressings must be purchased almost immediately. During the last war, 147,270 cases of supplies were sent to hospital units in England. £2,500 was contributed to equip a ward in the St. John Ambulance Brigade Hospital at Etaples in France.

Food and Comforts

Again the Red Cross wishes to be able to send socks, cigarettes and other comforts to the front. During the last war, 941,326 cases of supplies were sent overseas. The Society sent sixty pounds of food per month to every Canadian prisoner of war, in addition to tobacco, medical supplies, clothing and books.

Information Bureau

The Information Bureau set up at the London office rendered personal services to thousands of soldiers. Hospital visitors supplied Canadian patients with extra comforts and entertainments and reported their progress to relatives at home, and their needs to the Society. The Enquiry Department constantly searched for news of "missing" men to relieve the suspense of distant relatives.

A corps of voluntary workers will make a canvass of as many donors as possible during this drive. If one of these workers fails to get in touch with you, send in your contribution to your local Red Cross Branch.

DESSERTS THAT DELIGHT

The dessert is the last bite. Serve a novel, tasty dessert and your guests will leave the table with fond recollections of a delightful meal. Serve healthful, fruit desserts, light and filled with vitamins—and you'll be the "family doctor" even though your guests fail to realize it. Here are two unusual desserts that are in order:

Orange Marshmallow Pudding

(Serves 6-8)

3 cups Californian orange juice, strained
1 pound (about 60) marshmallows (quartered)

Heat in top of double boiler until marshmallows are melted. Do not overheat orange juice. Pour into serving dishes over orange segments which have been freed from membranes. Set in cool place to stiffen. Serve with: Whipped cream and maraschino cherries for garnish.

Variation: When slightly jellied, add 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Orange Coupe

(Serves 6)

6 California oranges
1 cup diced bananas
½ cup sugar
1 pint vanilla ice cream
2 egg whites

Cut slice from top of oranges. Remove pulp, leaving inside of oranges clean. Dice pulp and mix with bananas and ½ cup sugar. Fill orange shells half full of this mixture, add a rounded tablespoon of ice cream to each and top with meringue made of the whites of 2 eggs and ¼ cup sugar. Place in a hot oven or under broiler to brown meringue.

Apricot Roly-Poly

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder

½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening

2-3 cup milk
Melted butter

1½ cups cooked, sweetened apricots, drained and cooled

6 tablespoons sugar

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter, cover with apricot, and sprinkle with sugar. Roll as for jelly roll. Moisten edge and press against roll. Place in greased loaf pan with edge of roll on under side, brush with melted butter, and bake in hot oven (400° F.) 25 to 30 minutes, or until done. Serve hot with an apricot sauce, if desired.

Serves 8

Chocolate Divinity

2 cups sugar
2-3 cup water
½ cup light corn syrup

2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

3 squares unweetened chocolate melted and cooled

1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup broken pecan meats

Dash of salt

Bring ½ cup sugar and 1-3 cup of water to a boil and boil until a small amount of syrup forms a slightly firm ball in cold water. While this mixture is boiling, bring remaining sugar and water and the corn syrup to a boil and boil until a small amount of syrup forms a hard ball in cold water. Remove first syrup from fire and cool slightly; pour slowly over egg whites, beating constantly until mixture loses its gloss (1½ minutes). Then add second syrup slowly, beating as before. When nearly cool, fold in chocolate; then add vanilla, nuts and salt, and beat until candy will hold its shape. Turn into greased pan, 8x8 inches. Cool until firm. Cut in pieces, 1x1½ inches. Makes 3½ dozen pieces.

Prune Medallion Pudding

1 package lemon or raspberry flavored gelatin
1 pint hot water and prune juice

¼ cup sugar

Dash of salt

Dash of cinnamon

1-3 cup finely cut raisins

1 cup finely cut cooked prunes

¼ cup broken nut meats

Dissolve gelatin in hot water and prune juice. Add sugar, salt, cinnamon, raisins and prunes. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in nuts. Turn into small baking powder can or molds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve in slices. Garnish each slice with whipped cream if desired. Serves 6.

LOBSTER FOR LUNCH

Canadian canned lobster is a delightful food and will repay you well for taking the trouble to get to know it. Luncheons, dinners, after theatre parties, bridge club refreshments, informal snacks are occasions which call for lobster. It can be used in casserole and creamed dishes, in salads, sandwiches, canape spreads, omlets, croquettes and a variety of other ways to make interesting and elegant dishes which are surprisingly economical.

Try these Lobster Cutlets in your deep fat kettle. They are perfect for lunch when you want to make an impression.

Lobster Cutlets

1 cup thick white sauce

1 large can lobster meat broken

½ cup crumbled bread

½ teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon lemon juice

1 tablespoon minced parsley

Dash of paprika

2 eggs, slightly beaten

Dry bread crumbs

Mix white sauce, lobster and bread; add salt, lemon juice, parsley and paprika, mixing well; chill. When stiff enough to handle, mold into cutlets, dip in egg; then in crumbs; fry in hot deep fat (350° F.) about 2 minutes, or until golden brown. Approximate yield: 6 portions.

DIRECTORS CENTRAL A.L.A. PETITION FEDERAL GOVT.

At a recent convention of the Central Agricultural Improvement Association, held at Coronation, the following resolution was carried unanimously:

Whereas the members of the Wainwright Agricultural Improvement Association are in accord with any plan regarding war time production of commodities that in the opinion of the Dominion and Provincial Department of Agriculture would apply to their zone;

They also feel that, due consideration should be given agriculture in all phases on the same basis as other industries that are called upon to manufacture war necessities with a view to safeguarding agriculturists against the disastrous results of a sudden cessation of hostilities after having drastically made over and changed their agricultural methods and economy to comply with the special demands of war conditions.

Wife Preservers

Slip your face in and out into hot washing water sideways, so that the water will touch outside and inside at the same time and thus avoid cracking.

Cut and Color What "Make" Smartest Dresses

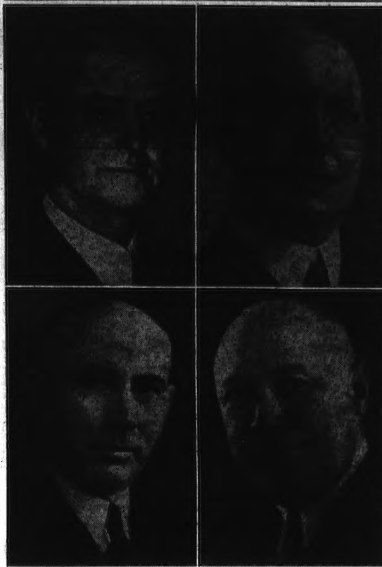

The smartest frocks rely on cut and color contrast for their chic and interest. Here is a model destined for a busy career, being the sort of frock that can be worn time and time again. It is of black velvet with removable round white satin yoke and throat, fluting repeated on the sleeves. The new bib necklaces look well on plain bodices such as this.

Several skating parties were held on nearby lakes on Sunday, glorious weather adding to the enjoyment of this sport.

The DIAL REVIEW
by Walter Davis

CJCA has emulated the Chambered Nautilus. They moved to smart, new offices, but retained their old address. If you visit them on the fourth floor of the Birks Building, you will find them geared for action. The new design co-ordinates all departments, making possible greater efficiency. If you note a brightening up of schedules and more polished operation—chalk down a star or two for the new office set-up!

And while on the subject of improvement—it seems to us that a program called The Campbell Playhouse, with 24-year-old Orson Welles doing the producing, improves each week. His casting and portraying of The Hurricane, followed by a superb presentation of The Murder of Roger Ackroyd, puts the young artist in a class by himself. He is heard each Sunday from CJCA, 8:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Perhaps it is a little too early to say whether or not the MC-ing of the Chase & Sanborn program is bettered by Rudy Vallée. Certainly, he hasn't lowered the calibre of the show at all. He has always been a master showman, and should fit in well with the ace-high talent already featured. In his opening tilt with Charlie McCarthy he came out unscathed—and that is a recommendation for any radio man! We hope he'll be doing a little more singing when next Sunday rolls around. We're setting aside the hour from six to seven to tune him in from C.G.A.

Over the last week-end, my radio set seemed to be behaving much better than usual, so I sat up with the idea of seeing how many far-away stations I could drag in. Come midnight Saturday, I twisted the dial back to 720 kilocycles, where it usually rests, to catch the opening of CJCA "Hello the North" broadcast. From then on, any idea of DX-ing was done. The show seems to have the atmosphere of the North all linked up with it, and once they have you dialled in, you're with 'em for the rest of the broadcast—and it goes on until 2:00 a.m.

One feature in particular on Hello the North tickled my fancy. It was that group of shagunated music makers called The Buccaneers. They have a character actor that can do a Limbo to perfection. Even at forty-five minutes past midnight he can get a laugh out of his audience—and that is something!

Another program to improve of late is the Wayne King show from CJCA Saturdays at 6:30 p.m. Their first entry to the Canadian networks seemed a little fuzzy around the edges—but thereafter the feature brightened up until it is now one of the best musical presentations on the air. Perhaps I'm prejudiced, because I always have been a pushover for the sweet music the Waltz King features. Anyhow, I'd recommend the stint to any listener—and those diamond rings they give away, aren't to be sniffed at either.

Another improvement worthy of comment is the brightening up of the CJCA morning schedule by the addition of the Musical Barometer. Norris MacKenzie announces the show, and if he also picks the music—he has congratulations coming. It has variety, and just enough brightness to take the sleep out of your eyes at 8:30 in the a.m. And it is nice to know how the thermometer stands before you venture out.

October 27th was the 53rd anniversary of the opening of the Grand Trunk Railway main line, now part of the Canadian National System, between Montreal and Toronto.
